Happy Canada Day

July 1, 2015

Canada Day is a special holiday where we come together as a nation to commemorate the birth of our country, as well as what makes us great as Canadians: our concern for human rights, generosity, determination and sense of community. As your Member of Parliament for Vegreville-Wainwright and on behalf of the Prime Minister of Canada, Stephen Harper, I wish you a happy holiday on the 148th birthday of this great country.

Whether you celebrate today at the numerous community events, parades, shows and vibrant fireworks which will take place across our country or with your family and friends, today is also an opportunity to celebrate those who have helped shape Canada into the country we are proud to call home. I, for one, am thankful to represent so many constituents who give so much for their community. From 4H organizers to those who help people in need, from the coaches and referees of sports teams to our church groups, I am very proud of the time and effort all volunteers spend to make our communities better places in which to live. It is through their tireless efforts that we continue to build the Canada love so much.

As we come together to celebrate our country and take pride in what we have accomplished, we also look toward the future to see what we will become. In two years we will mark the 150th anniversary of our country. I look forward to what will surely be a truly memorable celebration of our True North, strong and free.

No matter how you celebrate July 1st, God bless all of you on the 148th birthday of our great country. Happy Canada Day from my family to yours!
