Calling all of our wonderful volunteers,

Spring is here and it's time to start thinking flowers!

As the ADOPT A FLOWER BOX/BED program has been such a success over the last two years, the village is calling on our volunteers again this summer.

The Village of Heisler owns several flower boxes and beds in various locations throughout our community. Would you be interested in volunteering to care for the flowers in one (or more) of the boxes or beds? Annuals are to be planted around the first or second week of June.

The Village will provide the flowers, we just ask that you plant the flowers and maintain the water/ weeding for each box/bed that you agree to care for during the summer of 2015.

Please contact the village office for more information and/or if you are interested in volunteering to help maintain the beauty of our village.

Thank you very much!

BRSD enrollment going up, dollars going down

Even with more than 100 new students expected to enter Battle River schools in September, the Division will have less dollars available for schools.

Like all school divisions in the province, BRSD has been hit with a 2.7% overall decrease in funding for next year.

In addition, the Alberta government has said it will not provide dollars to cover growth in student enrollment. That means that, even though BRSD has reversed a five year enrollment decline trend and is welcoming a growing number of students, there will be no dollars provided to serve them.

"It's ironic, isn't it?" says Board Chair Kendall Severson. "When our numbers were going down, our budget went down too. We tightened our belts, made adjustments in staffing and services and waited for the number of young students to start going up. Now that we're experiencing growth, we're being asked to tighten our belts and make adjustments in staffing and services again."

Virtually every category of spending will be reduced, including cuts of nearly $750,000 in services such as the base grant for non-teacher services; Inclusive Education; Per Unit Funding for early learners; English as a Second Language programming; Outreach Education, Small Schools by Necessity funding; Colony schools; Transportation and Plant Operations and Maintenance.

Plus, the growth in student numbers should have generated an additional $981,000 that won't be arriving.

Overall, that leaves the jurisdiction struggling to find more than $1.7 million.

School divisions have been discouraged from using dollars they have in reserve to offset these cuts, being told that Boards need to make change in order to adjust to a new funding reality. The Minister of Education has cautioned school divisions that this "flat funding profile" could be in place for the next three to five years. He has stated that Boards must receive his permission before accessing reserve dollars.

Severson acknowledges that tapping in to reserves is not a long-term solution. But, he says, "occasions like this are the reason reserves were created. BRSD has a policy that every school and department must hold 2 to 6 percent of their budget in reserve. Those funds are intended to help offset unexpected expenses."

"As an elected Board, we feel strongly that our role is to ensure the fiscal stability of the school division," he adds. "Having a contingency fund is part of responsible management. We believe the decision of whether or not to access those reserves is ours."

The BRSD Board of Trustees agreed to take $290,000 from reserve funds in order to support schools which are expected to have a higher number of students. An additional $60,000 will be allocated to support the division's two smallest schools, for whom even minor changes in funding can have a major impact.

The rest of the shortfall will be covered through reductions in spending.

"Every single school and department will be affected," says Superintendent of Schools Rita Marler. "We are trying to reduce "things" instead of people, but every reduction we make has the potential to impact our level of service to students."

Additional details about the specific reductions that are being made will be released as they are finalized in the weeks ahead. Watch the BRSD website for updates.
